COTTON ADVANCES

Jaking, but Later Advanced When Bulls Took Up March Offerings.

There was a reaction from the exciteent of last week on the Cotton Exchange to-day. The brokers had been They had discovered where they stood and there was none of the hysterical hurrah that marked the rapid advance in the price of the staple that followed the publication of the much discussed Advices from Liverpool showed that there was still a demand abroad for cotton, but that the support of the Livwas last week. At the opening here quotations were off from 13 to 18 points. This was caused by heavy selling on the part of speculators who had bought heavily when the market was under 12 and were unloading for profit. There were takers for every bale offered. Daniel J. Sully, who is credited with having mangurated the bull movement, dealt exclusiely in the March option and took all he could get. There was a heavy demand, almost exclusively local. The heavy exports of the last three days of the week just past appears to have supplied the for gign market for the present. Steady buying resulted in a rally that sent prices up until the slump at the open ing was recovered about one-half.

After the first rush trading resumed its natural groove. Little was heard of the toreatened investigation into the alleged advance information secured by the buil leaders of the contents of the Government report. The situation did not appear to be worrying anybody, and aithough Sully and his adherents continued to predict that the top price has not been reached there were pienty of holders of cotton who appeared to be willing to sell.

Repeated efforts were made during the day to break the market, but prices held reasonably firm, although considerably off from the close of Saturday night. The power of Mr. Sully in the market was shown when he took hold of the January option this afternoon, and in a short time boosted the price 8 points over the slose Saturday night. Heavy buying of spot cotton for export at $12.50 a bade was the feature of the trading for the day. The market closed irregular, with all options save January below Saturday's closing prices.

The closing prices were: December, 12.97 to £2.65; January, 12.31 to 12.35; April. 12.33 to 12.35; June, 12.35 to 12.36; August, 12.00 to 12.04. The market closed barely steady.

An application to Justice Leventritt of the Supreme Court on the part of Dermott, as receivers of the National Salt Company, and Samuel D. Have You Seen the Sixth Ave., 19th to 20th Street. Marvellous Santa Claus? He's Here.

CATURDAY, in this store, was a gala day for thousands of little ones-all day long they were trooping in to see the 24-foot Santa Claus in the big Rotunda, and it was certainly a great opportunity for Lilliputian character study.

Some in their childish giee would emphasize their pleasure by waving their hands and shouting at big old St. Nick as he nodded and smiled at them—others were seemingly overcome by wonderment and would scarcely speak above a whisper as they timidly inquired if the big Santa Claus liked little boys and girls. Indeed he does, children-he loves you all, and that's just why we have brought him to the great Christmas-buying headquarters so you could see him, and right now we want to say that every boy and girl has our personal invitation to come in and see this big jolly old Kris Kringle. Don't allow the children to miss this great juvenile treat—they'll remember it all their lives, and, as it is said that Santa Claus likes only good little boys and girls. you can depend upon it they will be good—at least till after Christmas.
